Chapter 1 by Render Bones

Billy is an ordinary human boy. However, he is slightly less normal compared to everyone else. He is in the 9th grade. This semester he is loaded down with homework. He gets home every day and gets onto his computer. This is his way of dealing with everything the world gives him. Just give him his 30 minute break on his computer and he'll be ready to work on his homework and get his day started. You could say his computer will be the death of him. Or will it?
